Stories Well Beyond the Grave: Narrative Therapy and Grief Work

A full day workshop,
Wednesday, October 20, 2010.
Registration 8:30 am. Workshop from 9:00-4:00. Geneva Park Centre.

LEADERS

William Cooke, MSW, RSW,
RMFT, M.Div

Margotte Kaczanowska, MA,
RSW

WORKSHOP DESCRIPTION

So many therapeutic metaphors and practices emphasize closure and moving on as the primary markers of healthy grief and mourning. Those who can't or won't move on have often been seen as "resistant" or experiencing some form of "pathological grief". Narrative Therapy, as well as helping us to accept and say good-bye to those aspects of a relationship that have truly died, has opened new doors to "Saying Hello!" to the ongoing relationship with our loved ones that has always transcended death.

REGISTER EARLY

The workshop is limited to a maximum of 40 participants and includes 6 hours of training.

A Geneva Park buffet lunch and refreshments are included in the fee; breakfast and participation in the balance of the conference are recommended but optional.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN

This one day preconference workshop will provide participants with:

- An introduction/review of the maps of Narrative Practice that pertain directly to grief and mourning.
- An understanding of the unique contributions Narrative Therapy makes to grief counselling, including Michael White's Saying Hello Again practices and the work of Lorraine Hedke and John Winslade, authors of Re-membering Lives: Conversations with the Dying and Bereaved.
- An understanding of the ways in which Narrative Practices assist clients in appreciating and developing on-going relationships with deceased loved ones.
- An opportunity to witness a live Narrative Therapy interview and participate (optionally) as an outsider witness.

LEADERS

William Cooke, MSW, RSW, RMFT, M.Div
& Margotte Kaczanowska, MA, RSW

William and Margotte are colleagues in private practice in the High Park neighbourhood of West Toronto. They independently developed a deep appreciation for the radical collaborations possible through Narrative Therapy Practices and for 15 years took every opportunity to study with Narrative Therapy co-founder Michael White prior to his death in 2008. They are Field Education Instructors with the Ryerson University MSW Program and Conrad Grebel University College Peace and Conflict Studies Program, University of Waterloo (Wm). William teaches Complicated Grief in the Continuing Education program at George Brown College. They are passionate therapists and educators who love to help students and colleagues learn Narrative Therapy skills and practices. Margotte works in English and Polish. William is an Approved Supervisor and Clinical Member with the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT). Both are avid film buffs.
